

Chris McCree

Chris McCree is a qualified nurse who has worked extensively in mental health and learning disabilities services for over 30 years, she has worked in a number of clinical and safeguarding roles within services at the South London and Maudsley NHS Foundation Trust and the associated Local Authorities. Chris currently works with the Centre for Parent and Child Support taking a lead on parental mental health within the Helping Families Team and Perinatal Community Services.

In these roles she works closely with a wide range of professionals; these include health and social care staff, education colleagues and Early Help services. The role is both operational and strategic as it requires both an understanding and management of day-to-day clinical work with children and families as well as the strategic development and embedding of the South London and Maudsley Think Family Strategy, this work has involved a number of service developments, Quality Improvement projects and Safeguarding/Think Family training across the workforce.
